Sparks Skit

Carla Belanger, Camp Rep and Sparks Parent Tanisi District, University Division April 2005

At our district camp this spring, our Sparks were involved in the celebration of Alberta's 100th birthday. The challenge was to make the experience of 100 years ago relevant to these five and six year olds who still view themselves as the centre of the world, and still rely on concrete, hands on experience. The Sparks were asked to present a skit on the period in Alberta's history from 1905 – 1925. The skit was to be acted out around the campfire and performed in front of the Brownies, Guides, Pathfinders, and Leaders.

We decided to go with a narrative poem, and have the girls take turns doing the actions. Before we practiced it with them we had a lively discussion about what it was like 100 years ago. The most memorable part of the discussion (and it was quite lively!) was the part about women not being able to vote. We explained to them that it would be like their parents saying "Who wants pizza and who wants macaroni for supper? Oh yeah, and only the boys can vote." The look on their faces was priceless. We explained each of the props and then we practiced the skit 3 times. The girls were each "in charge" of their own props, carrying them to campfire and using them during the skit. We had 3 leader "helpers" and a narrator. When the girls were asked at the end of camp what their favorite thing was — many of them said "the skit!". They were very proud of their accomplishment. The following is the poem that I wrote for the occasion, and the accompanying actions and props.

Alberta 1905 – 1925

It was in the year 1905,

When our province, Alberta, came alive.

all girls are sitting – they stand up – growing like a flower
8 of them hold the numbers 1905 1925

We used to be part of the Territories, But we got our own name, and rules and things.

Alberta was named after a lovely princess By the Marque de Lorne, who loved her the best.

By 1914 a million people came through They left their old countries to try something new.

There were Ukrainians, Blacks, Mormons and Chinese Scandanavians, British, American and Japanese.

To cross the ocean they traveled by ship Some of them even got very sick.

They crossed the country on a train on the tracks When they saw Alberta they cheered and they clapped.

They bought some land for just ten bucks And crossed their fingers for good luck.

They built their homes the best they could Using grass and dirt since there was no wood.

They learned everything they needed to know In order to be farmers and make things grow.

They had to dig up the hard dirt and grass This was called plowing and they learned it fast. first pair of girls: a princess with a crown and a "man" at his knees

2 girls are rowing and waving

8 more girls get on the "boat" Some are wearing aprons same girls look very sick and tired on the boat same girls are on a "train" looking excited and clapping

2 girls exchange money and cross their fingers

4 girls are "plowing" with a kids gardening props

Then they had to plant all the seeds same girls are "gardening" with watering cans, rakes And pull up all the nasty weeds. same girls are praying while someone holds up a pictures of And pray for rain, and sun, not snow So that the wheat would grow and grow. the sun and rain 2 girls – one is a mom with an apron the other is a child Flour was made out of all the wheat So that moms could bake the bread to eat. helping with a sifter of flour. Children helped with lots of chores, There was so much to do they never got bored! They gathered eggs from under chickens, 4 girls – two are chickens "laying" boiled eggs. And chopped all the wood for the stove in the kitchen. Two collect eggs and chop with cardboard axes They didn't have Nintendo or pizza pops girls ride the ponies props—could also use the word mops They rode on pretend horses made out of socks. They had to make up games to play girls pretend to ride their ponies into the hay And sometimes their horses would jump in the hay. To get to school was very far same girls walking with book bundle and lunch sack props And you must remember there were no cars. So children walked a very long way To learn to read, do math and play. same 2 girls – a 3rd is the "mean" teacher There was only one teacher in the whole school And children had to obey strict rules. At home in the evening the family gathered girls make a family around the radio prop drawn on box Around the radio to hear news that mattered The children all sat on their dads' big knees same 4 pretend to drink tea and listen And moms sewed and stitched and drank their tea Along came the first tractor and the first big trucks 2 girls "drive" with goggles and scarves as props That helped with the farm work and delivered the stuff. People couldn't believe it when they saw the first car. It went pretty fast and it traveled so far! And since it was a long time ago (girls get ready to come in all together) There is something else you really should know, There was a law that wasn't so cool, That said that women couldn't help make the rules. All the girls marching and raising their placard props So the women all got together and wrote And they told everyone it was their right to vote. All girls hand out voting ballots to the audience

So that's the beginning of Alberta's history,

That the women were important – for sure you can see!
